SUBIECTUL I(30 de puncte)

Consider the following text:

“It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife. However little known the feelings or views of such a man may be on his first entering a neighbourhood, this truth is so well fixed in the minds of the surrounding families, that he is considered the rightful property of someone or other of their daughters. “My dear Mr. Bennet,” said his lady to him one day, “have you heard that Netherfield Park is let at last?” Mr. Bennet replied that he had not. “But it is,” returned she; “for Mrs. Long has just been here, and she told me all about it.” Mr. Bennet made no answer. “Do you not want to know who has taken it?” cried his wife impatiently. “You want to tell me, and I have no objection to hearing it.” This was invitation enough. “Why, my dear, you must know, Mrs. Long says that Netherfield is taken by a young man of large fortune from the north of England; that he came down on Monday in a chaise and four to see the place, and was so much delighted with it, that he agreed with Mr. Morris immediately; that he is to take possession before Michaelmas, and some of his servants are to be in the house by the end of next week.” “What is his name?” “Bingley.” “Is he married or single?” “Oh! Single, my dear, to be sure! A single man of large fortune; four or five thousand a year. What a fine thing for our girls!” “How so? How can it affect them?” “My dear Mr. Bennet,” replied his wife, “how can you be so tiresome! You must know that I am thinking of his marrying one of them.” “Is that his design in settling here?” “Design! Nonsense, how can you talk so! But it is very likely that he may fall in love with one of them, and therefore you must visit him as soon as he comes.” “I see no occasion for that. You and the girls may go, or you may send them by themselves, which perhaps will be still better, for as you are as handsome as any of them, Mr. Bingley may like you the best of the party.”

Black Friday

I never want (1) _____ hear the term “Black Friday” again. It has always astonished me ____ (2) people go so crazy during the Black Friday sales. It surely can’t be all that important to get a discount on some inanimate object? What I am going to do in this little article is talk (3) _____ some of the things that have happened to me while suffering Black Friday in what I can only describe as savage event. I don’t normally spend a great deal of time shopping in January, but my other half insisted on venturing to the shopping centre and that we needed ____ (4) new pots and pans, so I didn’t really have a choice. It all started on the opening of the doors at 9.00 am, there was already a massive queue that stretched around the block and some of them had ____ (5) waiting there since the early hours. People got really nervous before opening and now I know why. As soon ____ (6) the doors opened it turned into a stampede. It was as ____ (7) everyone had turned into a wild animal. I was so surprised as you can see old ladies of 70 hitting and pushing people, also mothers with their children shouting and screaming. I truly believe that it is the advertisers fault for all of this craziness. They should ____ (8) be allowed to pressure people into buying these products. Most people don’t even need them. If it were my choice, I would never go back. This year I was pushed to the ground and I hurt ____ (9) knee, now I can’t run in my race on Saturday and in the end we went ____ (10) the most expensive pans that I have ever seen in my life. Now, I’m broke, what a disaster!
